I've recently been re-doing my own documentation wiki and figured this might also be useful to be used as a drop in replacement for the existing Hacman docs we're using at the moment.

It's basically dokuwiki, but with a commonmark plugin so that the syntax is markdown instead of the native dokuwiki syntax. This means all the existing docs don't need to be re-written just copied / pasted across.

Note this is just a demo so please don't put anything here that you want to keep currently
